

DESE and WGBH Partnership for Educational Resources

Looking for more tips on using PBS LearningMedia for remote learning? There is a new collection of overview tutorials on the site that you can use for quick help.

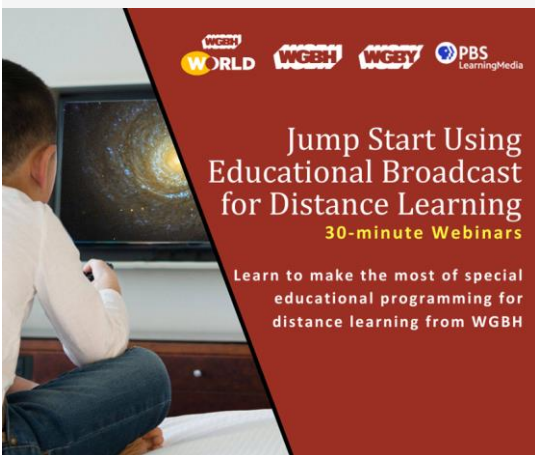

Once you're up to speed on searching the site, you can look for more how-to videos on a wide variety of topics. Some examples:

- Supporting students in math argumentation and critique
- Using interactive lessons for middle school literacy
- Fostering resilience and leadership skills in students

As always, please send any thoughts and questions to: education@wgbh.org.

Webinars and Other Virtual Events

Educational Broadcast Jump Start

Get a preview of what we've got planned for our daily blocks of educational broadcast programming on WGBH The World channel, for students with limited or no internet access, or to augment online learning. This session will preview content for May 11-15, show accompanying digital learning resources, and give you tips for extending learning if you assign or recommend the programming to students.

Register

DESE and WGBH Partnership for Educational Resources

Interactive Lessons for Elementary Students

Interactive lessons on PBS LearningMedia are tailor-made for engaging students in standards-based distance learning. Join us for a deep dive into the pedagogy and functionality of interactive lessons, as well as tips for classroom use by elementary school teachers.

Register

Live Discussion with Director Stanley Nelson

Using clips from award-winning director Stanley Nelson's documentaries, we will explore approaches and the ethics behind tackling big problems with learners, and talk about ways that educators can guide students in identifying problems and avenues for change. This discussion is live, so participants will be able to ask Stanley Nelson and fellow educators questions in real time. Find resources for Freedom Summer, Freedom Riders, The Black Panthers, and more Nelson documentaries on PBS LearningMedia.

Register